

PROF. TAINA PIHLAJARINNE, University of Helsinki, FI

LL.D. Taina Pihlajarinne is a professor at the University of Helsinki, Faculty of Law. Having graduated in 2001, she worked four years in practice, and has held various teaching and researching positions at the Helsinki University of Faculty of law since 2005. She obtained her doctoral degree in 2010 and was appointed as professor of copyright law in 2014. Her research interests focus on the impacts that digitalization and development of technology has on intellectual property rights, in particular on copyright and trademark law. She has published several books and articles on these themes.